AirFlare Search Technology, training and support is provided free of charge to the resort's Mountain Patrol team, plus other auxiliary search teams as requested (e.g. county sheriff, county SAR, mountain rescue, etc.).

The AirFlare team partners with the resort Marketing Team to actively promote the AirFlare service to resort customers with intent to drive AirFlare app downloads and subscriptions within the mountain community.

- Mountain Bikers
- Season Pass Holders
- Hikers and Trail Runners

- Ski School Participants
- Special Event and Tour Participants (E.g. Snow-cat or Heli Ski, Swiftwater Rafting)

Secondary audience: Resort employees and staff. The AirFlare team offers a free lifetime subscription to AirFlare to all resort employees and staff. Messages are designed in conjunction with Resort to educate and encourage adoption.

What mechanisms are used to promote AirFlare to Adventurers?

The AirFlare team, in partnership with the Resort, employs multiple means of encouraging AirFlare adoption by Resort guests and staff. Specific mechanisms are determined in collaboration with the Resort but may include:

Social Media

Leverages AirFlare team and Resort social media accounts (Facebook, Instagram, Twitter). The AirFlare team may allocate budget to boost specific posts to a broader, targeted audience.

Mountain Resort Email Distribution Lists

Leverages various targeted distribution lists managed by the Resort (e.g. all customers, season pass holders, ski school participants, family program participants, employees and staff) to directly communicate messages and offers. Emails can be distributed from Resort account or AirFlare account.

Mountain Resort Website

Leverages a dedicated section of the Resort website such as Mountain Safety to describe AirFlare, how it works, and why it was adopted.

Physical Displays

The AirFlare team will work with the resort to determine where stationary creatives promoting AirFlare may be displayed. Examples:

1. Lift ticket lines
2. Rental shop lines
3. Guest services lines
4. Gift shop
5. Lift poles
6. Ski patrol building
7. Cafeteria including menu inserts
8. Lodge including lobby and advertisement in room brochures
9. Bathroom stall inserts
10. Free standing or banner type signage distributed throughout property

Ticket Handout

Engages ticket sale staff to hand out a small (bookmark size) card with each ticket purchased. Alternatively, a stack of cards can be placed at the ticket line to be picked up voluntarily.

Rental Tag

Attaches a small AirFlare promotion to rental gear (E.g. snowboards and ski bindings) via an elastic band.

Special Events

The AirFlare team is interested in attending and potentially sponsoring resort and community events where a broad or targeted population of resort guests and/or community outdoor adventurers can be reached. E.g. Mountain Safety and Awareness events, festivals, races, and equipment swaps. AirFlare can act independently or in collaboration with resort staff to promote AirFlare awareness and encourage adoption.

Personalized AirFlare App Home Page

AirFlare app Homepage header (picture and content) is personalized to the resort when an AirFlare subscriber's phone comes within vicinity of the resort. Header displays picture of the resort and a phone number for resort ski patrol. User is notified

Resort App Cross Promotion

AirFlare app and Resort app are cross-promoted.

1. Resort adds an AirFlare reference and action button to the resort app which promotes AirFlare
2. Via Resort Personalization of AirFlare (see above), when AirFlare app is within resort boundaries, it displays a reference and action button to the resort app

Contests and Giveaways

The AirFlare team periodically employs contests and giveaways to encourage visibility and adoption.

When a contest or giveaway is in partnership with the resort, the AirFlare team may ask the resort to donate goods or services such as a lift ticket, a ski lesson, a night at the lodge or a gift certificate for a meal.

Video Collaboration

The AirFlare team has partnered with a video production company, capable of producing marketing and/or educational videos on site featuring AirFlare onsite at the resort and featuring resort staff.

Who is responsible for campaign and creatives design and deployment?

The AirFlare team assumes responsibility for the heavy lifting. The AirFlare team is responsible for creating campaigns and contests, sourcing images and drafting messages. The AirFlare team may ask the resort for access to licensed images that can be used in creatives, or for references to local photographers.

The AirFlare team requests the Resort review and approve all creatives prior to deployment.

Resort staff may also be involved in creatives deployment where Resort assets and facilities are used (for example, placement of physical displays, distribution of targeted emails from Resort email accounts, scheduling posts from Resort social media accounts, etc.).

What materials are provided to the resort to aid in development of its own creatives?

Upon initiation of the partnership, the AirFlare team will supply the Resort a packet of material to include:

- Logos (PDF, PNG, JPG, Full color, Monochrome, white background, transparent background)
- Guidelines on how logos are to be displayed
- Approved copy to use to introduce and describe AirFlare

- AirFlare color palette
